CRONJE GONE TO THE CAPE.

VERY ELABORATE PREPARATIONS AGAINST THE SIGHTSEER.

The Old Man Seemed Dejected and Miserable and is Very Much Grayer.

Orange River, March 2—Conje and his wife passed here last night on their way to the cape. Elaborate precautions were taken to prevent the public from seeing him. Even officers were ordered away from the station. The refreshment room was kept closed before his arrival, the Kimberly passengers being obliged to go without food. Conje looked dejected and miserable. He is much grayer. He entered the refreshment room accompanied by his wife and an interpreter on General Prettyman's staff. On taking his seat at the table Conje covered his face with his hands for a few moments as if he were engaged in prayer.

WITCHCRAFT IN EARLY DAYS.

John Fiske, the Historian, Talks of the Widespread Delusion.

Boston Herald.

The Lexington (Mass.) Historical Society observed forefathers' day with a public meeting held in Hancock congregational church. The special feature was an address by John Fiske, of Cambridge, on "The Salem Witchcraft," who spoke as follows:

"The sixteenth and seventeenth centuries were the flourishing ages of the witchcraft delusion. Witchcraft in the early ages was considered one of the greatest of crimes as much so as murder, robbery, or any other serious offense against the law, and the belief in it was shared by the whole human race until the latter part of the seventeenth century.

"In England in 1664 two women were tried before Sir Matthew Hale, charged with bewitching several girls and a baby, and they were put to death, for at that time the evidence seemed perfectly rational. In 1615, in Genoa, five hundred people were burned to death on the charge of witchcraft. It was the proud boast of a noted executioner in northern Italy at that time that in fifteen years he had assisted in burning nine hundred persons charged with sorcery. In Scotland, between 1560 and 1600 eight thousand persons were put to death, an average of two hundred persons a year. The last execution for witchcraft in England took place in 1712, in Scotland in 1722, in Germany in 1749, and in Spain in 1781.

"On the whole, it is remarkable that so few were sentenced to death during the sixty years after the settlement of Boston, there being but twelve in all. The first case was that of Margaret Jones, of Charlestown, in 1648. This woman had some advanced ideas in regard to the practice of medicine, curing by herbs, barks, etc., and so gained the enmity of some of the doctors. She was accused of being in league with the devil, and was convicted and hanged. On the day of her execution a terrific gale happened in Connecticut, blowing down trees and doing other damage, and this Governor Winthrop deemed evidence of her guilt.

"In 1656 Mrs. Ann Hutchison was tried before Governor Endicott, found guilty and hanged on Boston Common. In the next twenty or thirty years there were a number of cases tried, and strange to say, a number of those charged with the crime were acquitted. John Bradstreet, of Rowley, was accused of intimacy with the devil and sentenced to pay a fine or be whipped.

A noted case was that of a woman employed by the Goodwin family in 1688, in the fact that Cotton Mather took an active interest in the case. The woman confessed, thinking that clemency would be shown her, but she was hanged."

Prof. Fiske gave a brief resume of Mather's life, and said that early historians had not not done him justice, and that his memory had been held up as that of one who, more than any other man stimulated the delusion of witchcraft. This, the speaker said, was not so, and the first man to do him justice was the poet Longfellow, in 1868, and, later, William Frederic Poole, the latter giving a most accurate view of the case.

The speaker then came to the Salem cases. He said that in 1692 the circumstances favored an outbreak of witchcraft. Everything in Massachusetts was going wrong. It was believed that the devil was in their midst and the reverses in Indian wars and other afflictions had wrought the minds of the colonists up to a high pitch.

A DOSE OF HICKORY.

Negro Punished for Slapping a Wilmington Lady.

Special to News and Observer.

Wilmington, N. C., March 1—It is reported on what is considered very good authority that the negro cook, Amanda Hill, who a day or two ago, slapped and otherwise roughly treated a very estimable white lady of this city, was overtaken by friends of the lady's family at Masonboro Sound last night and soundly thrashed.

The officers who have exerted every effort to thwart any acts of violence in the matter, are keeping very quiet, and particulars of the occurrence were very meagre here today.

COULD HAVE HELD OUT LONGER

BUT COULD HAVE DONE LITTLE FIGHTING OWING TO SICKNESS.

A Correspondent Writes of The Last Days in The Garrison.

London—March 2—A Ladysmith correspondent telegraphs that the garrison could have held out six weeks longer, but sickness and scarcity of ammunition would have limited the power of repelling assaults.

There were originally 12,000 soldiers and 2,000 civilians and 4,000 natives of the town. Eight thousand soldiers passed through the hospitals. The death rate was low until January. The increase was then due to lack of medicines. It is impossible to exagerate the privations which the sick have undergone since the middle of January. Once a man was down he was practically lost. The rations just sufficed to keep the men alive. The last fortnight saw the majority of the field batteries unhorsed, the guns permanently posted, the cavalry and drivers converted into the infantry line. Since the seige began 259 men have been killed, 348 died of disease, 590 wounded. This list does not include casualties to citizens.

EQUIVALENT TO FREE TRADE.

The President's Acquiescence in the Passage of the Tariff Bill.

Washington Post.

It was stated by a member of the Cabinet yesterday that the provision in the Porto Rican compromise tariff bill, which stipulates that all the revenues collected on Porto Rican goods, and goods imported from the United States and elsewhere, shall be expended in the island for the benefit of its people, is the prominent feature which reconciles the President to its passage With this provision in the bill, he said, the net result would be, in a measure, the same as free trade, which the President recommended to Congress in his last message.

It was said that in making that recommendation the President had taken into account all of the factors that entered into it, its great need of schools, the provisions which must be made for the suppression of epidemic diseases, the necessity for the construction of roads and bridges, and the other necessary public improvements which the situation in the island imperatively demands. He also took into account it is said, the fact that business in the island is in a deplorable situation, and that the people are well nigh helpless to meet the ordinary demands of government.

In this situation it was the President's view that the United States, from its abundance, should extend a helping hand, and he had in preparation at one time a message to Congress asking for an appropriation of $3,000,000 to be expended for the public schools of the island.

Another phase of the subject which has occupied the attention of the administration is that involving the open door policy. This government having secured from the European powers the pledge that the United States shall have equal trade rights in the East, could not, it was said, with any degree of consistency, shut the door to their trade with the Philippines.

Although it is admitted that a declaration in favor of free trade with Porto Rico might establish a precedent which would be difficult to overcome in dealing with the Philippines, yet, it was stated, that a declaration in the bill itself of the right of Congress to deal with these two questions separately, and as, in its judgment, it might deem best, would simplify the problem and leave this government free to treat the Philippines as an entirely independent proposition.

The one point in the determination of the Porto Rican problem which the President, it is believed, will steadfastly insist upon is that the nominal duties collected by the Porto Ricans, and those collected in the ports of the United States on Porto Rican goods shall be expended for the sole benefit of the islanders themselves.

Anderson Kills 24 Filipinos.

Manila, March 2—Colonel Anderson, with the thirty-eighth infantry, employing insurgent tactics, ambushed Filipinos near Batangas. Learning from spies that insurgents would pass a certain road, he concealed his soldiers behind trees, lining the road, and when the enemy appeared the Americans rallied, unexpectedly killing 24 and wounding 30, and afterwards capturing 7.

Urged Cronje to Hold Out.

London, March 2—A special correspondent at Paardebergsays; "A curious piece of news has just been related to me by Cronje's aid de camp. It appears that Cronje was in daily heliographic communication with General Dewet, who was supposed to be bringing up reinforcements. Finally Cronje heliographed him that unless he was relieved immediately, he would feel bound to surrender. Dewet replied with cheering messages, urging him to hold on longer and he would soon be relieved, but he totally failed to effect any diversion."

Kruger Says Clouds Are Dark.

Pretoria, March 1, via Lorenzo Marquez, March 2—President Kruger addressed a vast congregation at Dopper church, near Majuba Hill today. He said dark clouds were still hovering over the land, but that he still had faith in the Almighty, and that the cause of justice would yet carry the federal forces to a successful issue in the campaign.

THROWS OIL ON THE WATERS.

LANSDOWNE TAKES A DASH AT BRITISH ENTHUSIAM.

While Rejoicings Are High He Springs a $275,000,000 Estimate.

Associated Press to Charlotte Observer.

London, March 2, 4:30 a. m.—Britons feel that they are living in the presence of momentous events. Tornadoes of patriotic excitement are whirling through the country. Even the dullest soul must have been stirred by the emotions of yesterday, and London's 6,000,000 were raised to a high pitch of patriotic exaltation. It was a wonderful sight. Old men have nothing in memory with which to compare the day. Some likened it to Lucknow; others talked of the fall of Sebastopol It was a time of singular abandonment. The usual conventions of society ceased to control, and everybody knew everybody else, all joining in smiles or bellowings as their disposition moved them Lord Lansdowne chose the phychological moment to announce estimates exceeding £61,000,000, and rather startled the public by unfolding the programme of the war office to send out in addition to the 30,000 troops now afloat, 56,000 fresh soldiers. Lord Roberts will ultimately have a force of a quarter of a million.

An order has reached Woolwich arsenal for the construction of 224 new guns from three-pounders to 12-inch guns. Of these 140 are to be naval guns Already 25,000 workmen are employed at the arsenal and 3 000 more will be engaged. These decisions to send out more troops and to increase the home armament meet with universal approval.

The Boers seem to have gotten quite away from around Ladysmith without losing a gun or their baggage. Van Reenen's pass is only about 20 miles from Ladysmith. The enemy had artillery in position Tuesday and they probably utilized both railroads in retreating, sending the heavy pieces to Pretoria and the lighter ones into the Free State.

Dr. Leyds says that General Joubert is assembling 50,000 men at Windburg, 70 miles northeast of Bloemfontein, Colonel Albrecht, according to a dispatch from Paarderberg, affirms that the Boers have 75,000 men left.

Whether Lord Roberts is at Bloemfontein now or not, he doubtless soon will be dating his dispatches there, and using the town as his advanced base.

Lord Kitchener's mission is to combine the forces under General Clement and General Gatacre and to advance the line of the railroad to Bloemfontein. The railway will simplify immensely the perplexities of transport. The conditions no longer retain their special information. It appears that since the middle of January, the horses have been half starved, and altogether too weak to drag guns, or to carry cavalrymen. Hence the impossibility of dashing out.

Gossipy Budget from High Point.

Correspondence of the Telegram.

High Point, March 2—Mr. W. E. Carter is confined to his room with a severe attack of rheumatism.

J. W. Seohrest, the undertaker, is somewhat under the weather this week.

Mr. J. T. Winslow, of Asheboro, spent last evening in the city.

Mr. Ishamer Cook, who has been sick with fever for several weeks, died yesterday at his home near here. He will be buried today.

Mr. J. A. Webb, of Oxford, was here yesterday on business.

Only about half a dozen patients are now confined in the smallpox hospital, and these will be released next week. If we have good luck there will not be a case of the disease in town by this time next week.

High Point Mantel and Table Company have purchased a lot from Mr. J. H Hoffman, just below Snow Basket Works, and will commence the erection of their factory shortly.

The Herald Square Opera Company will hold the boards at the opera house next Tuesday night. This is the organization which showed here last December, and which pleased our people so well.

Messrs. Rees & Bond, of Greensboro, have been doing some nice scenery work on the stage curtain at the opera house. The work has been highly complimented.

High Point is a good market for horses, as has been demonstrated in the past several weeks.

Mr. E T. Carpenter, of Williamsburg, Pa., who spent last winter here for his health, writes an interesting letter to the Enterprise on "Children of the Northland." The contrast to the children of the Sunny South is beautiful and interesting.

In company with Dr. J. R. Pietzel, Miss Mamie Ellison left last night for Baltimore for treatment,

Miss Cassie Olive, of Staley, who has been visiting Mrs. Weldon, has returned home.

Lawyer Blair, of Asheboro, was here today,

L. M. H. Reynolds, of Greensboro, is in the city today.

We received this morning direct from the factory a shipment of girls' shoes, button and laced, to sell at $1.25 to $1.50, that we consider the best shoes for the price we have ever handled. They are neat, good-looking shoes, and at the same time stout and serviceable. We will take pleasure in showing you these shoes and believe you will like them and find them satisfactory in every way. THE ADULTERATION OF FOOD.

The Senate's Investigation Reveals Its Tremendous Extent

Washington Post.

The senate committee on manufactures yesterday submitted to the Senate a report on the extensive investigation it has conducted into allegations that many important articles of food and drink are adulterated so as to be either a serious detriment to the public health or, where the adulterant is not injurious to health, a fraud on the purchaser Accompanying the report is a great mass of testimony taken in the leading cities of the country. The report says the importance of the investigation made and the legislation proposed cannot be too strongly emphasized. It adds:

"The adulteration of prepared or manufactured foods is very extensively practiced, and in many cases to the great discredit of our manufacturers It is only fair to say, however, that a proportion of the American manufacturers who are engaged in adulterating food products do so in order to meet competition, and it is the expression of those gentlemen to say: 'We would be glad to get out of the business of adulterating. We would like to quit putting this stuff in coffee, and would be willing to brand our sirups for what they are, but our competitors get a trade advantage which we cannot surrender.'

"It is the purpose of his committee to adopt this uniform rule: To prohibit the sale of deleterious and unhealthy food products, and as those food products which are simply cheapened by adulterants, to compel the marking of those goods for what they are. Deleterious food products should be prohibited and the rest thoroughly regulated.

"There have been two general ways suggested as to the matter of regulation First, to put the important food products under the internal revenue law, as we have in the case of butter, filled cheese, and, during the last congress, flour. The pure flour bill has absolutely prohibited the sale of adulterated flour, which was found to be in many cases dangerous to the public health, and has increased the sale of flour probably 25 per cent. in other countries. If the rule established by this committee can be carried out as to our other food products we will not only protect the consumer and the honest manufacturer who is willing to sell his goods for what they are, but we will also establish a reputation for our food products, which will assist us to find a ready market for them in other countries.

"The other plan to regulate the food products is contained in senate bill 2426, which establishes a department under the secretary of Agriculture, and provides for the establishment of a board, which shall fix the standards for foods, drinks, and foodrugs, based on the American Pharmacopoeia. The strong argument in favor of this plan is the fact that it would be cumbersome to take all the small articles of food products that are now adulterated and allow their sophistication or adulteration, for the purposes of cheapening, and require a stamp upon each of the small packages offered for sale.

"To illustrate: The evidence before the committee shows that all our peppers, cinnamon, cloves, and spices generally, including ginger and mustard, are adulterated. One manufacturer testified that he adulterated these largely with cocoanut shells, and that the amount of adulterants put in depended upon the man who ordered it. Sometimes as high as 60 per cent. was put in.' It would be difficult, it may be seen at a glance, to establish a law for spices, to compel them to stamp as mixed spice every package sold. It may be that such cumbersome legislation will have to be made in order to properly punish those who adulterate their goods; but it is hoped that the senate bill 2426 will reach all interstate traffic in manufactured food products, and that the board established under the bill will have power to fix standards based upon what is now the standard in the American Pharmacopoeia.

"In the case of butter, cheese and flour the frauds practiced was so apparent and dealt so with the most important food products, that the revenue plan seemed to be, and is, wise and successful, and it may become necessary, if the real purpose of this bill meets with opposition and defeat, wise and prudent for this committee to have prepared and ready revenue legislation to reach some of the most glaring evils by aiding it to the next revenue bill."

GOSSIP ABOUT JUDGESHIP.

The Talk that Senator Pritchard Will be Appointed if Ewart Fails.

Special to the Telegram.

Washington, March 2—Senator Pritchard has returned to his home for a few days, and will not be back in Washington before next week. It is said that the North Carolina senator has become about convinced that there is not much hope for the confirmation of Judge Ewart, though if this is the case, the senator keeps it to himself when in Washington, for he always speaks confidently as to the confirmation of his friend

In this connection the rumors coupling Senator Pritchard's name with the United States judgeship are being revived. It is even asserted that President McKinley may offer him the appointment if Ewart is not confirmed, or if his nomination is again held up until the adjournment of congress. The friends of Senator Pritchard, however, do not believe that there is any likelihood of his accepting the judgeship, for the reason that if were to resign a democrat would be elected by the legislature to fill out his unexpired term. A democrat will doubtless be elected to succeed Senator Butler, and the republican-populist combination would not relish the idea of two democratic senators from North Carolina just at this time.

Judge Ewart still remains in Washington, and it is said that he will remain here until his nomination is acted upon by the senate. The judge is himself confident of confirmation, if he can secure a vote in the Senate, but what he fears most is that Senator Butler may repeat his tactics of holding up the nomination in the senate until the final adjournment of the session.

Mr. T. C. Linn, of Salisbury, North Carolina, has gone home to spend a few days, and will return here next week. Mr. Linn is employed at the capitol, and is one of the popular employes there.

Senator Tillman, of South Carolina, has gone to South Carolina for a few days for the purpose of attending the meeting of the trustees of Clemson, and Due West colleges. The senator will not return to Washington before Sunday night.

Several Virginia members of the house and Senators Daniel and Martin will go to Richmond today. Senators Daniel and Martin, and Representative Swanson will attend the dinner to be given by Lieutenant Governor Echols to the members of the Virginina state senate.

Miss Woolvington, of this city, has gone to Salisbury for a few days on a visit to friends.

Representative Kitchen has presented a resolution of the chamber of commerce, of Charlotte, North Carolina, in favor of the bill providing for a resident clerk of the United States circuit and district courts at Charlotte, N. C.

Attempt at Dynamiting.

Lebanon, Pa., March 2—There was a daring attempt this morning to blow up the factory of W. H. Era, of Palmyra, which was prevented by an employe. When Engineer Zimmerman went to work this morning he noticed a small object suspended in the doorway in such a way as to be crushed between the doors in closing. Zimmerman took it down and found it was dynamite with two percussion caps on the ends.

EMPEROR WILLIAM'S PLAY.

There is in Germany a high-roached mustache gentleman whose chief distinction is that he sits upon the throne of his grandfather. This gentleman, known to himself as William the Great, among his other vagaries, believes in the divine right, which idea is supposed to have been carrying a black eye for a century or two. Really no one of his majesty's loving servants would object to William's belief in his fad if he were not disposed to carry it too far. He has for some time been trying to hypnotise the German people into a state of mind to believe that by spending millions on a navy they can go ahead of England on the ocean. Such schemes as that, along with others that necessitate piling more taxes upon the already stooping shoulders of his loyal subjects might be tolerated, but when it comes to Emperor William's latest fad, somebody in the country of the Emperor ought to be able to scotch his wheels.

This latest scheme is noting less than writing, in colaboration with a friend—probably forced into service—a play, and having it produced upon the stage of the Royal Theatre. William is struck on the word iron, and so he has called his play "The Iron Tooth." All of the ticke's had been sold nine days before the play was to be given. Probably the purchasers knew what would be required of obedient subjects. On the fatal night the house was packed, and the scene was prodigally gay. On the left side sat the court people, the officials and the military dignitaries. "In the center court boxes were the imperial aides-de-camp, the minister of the royal household, Herr von Wedel; the chief of the civil cabinet, Baron von Lucanus, and the chief of the military cabinet, Gen. von Hancke. The side court boxes were occupied by ladies of the court. The scene was one of unusual elegance."

To be sure it was. And to be sure, William was stationed thereabouts to conveniently receive the applause of the admiring throng.

Had there been none others besides those mentioned present, it is reasonably safe to think that the author would have received such applause as would have made his modest face light brilliantly with the pride of authorship. But alas, there were others, and they must certainly have come from an American peanut gallery. The report informs us that after the first act there was complete silence. This alone should have suggested to the emperor the advisability of retiring, but he waited for applause. Some of it came after the second and third acts, there being a vigorous response among those who thought the emperor expected it, but "from the parquette, where the critics and literary people sat, and from the second and third galleries, there came a piercing storm of hisses."

We can but believe that if the would-be-author had received a shower of cabbage and cats by way of encore, it would have been a valuable lesson to him.

JOE SIBLEY'S POETRY.

In the winding up of the debate on the Porto Rico tariff bill Wednesday divers festive statesmen gave reins to their hobby horses and pranced out towards the field of wit and humor. Some of them fell by the wayside, some reached the field but failed to enter, while a few made fairly creditable tilts. Here is Joe Sibley's dedication to the democratic party:

Living in serfdom to years that have flown,
Clinging to dogmas the world has outgrown;
Choosing to march in the dust of the rear,
Falling in vision to duty that's clear.
Sluggard in planting for harvests of grain,
Threshing old straw with laborious pain;
Lacking in force to inaugurate good,
Hindering and carping at others who would.

One thing is certain, the Honorable Joseph Sibley doesn't "live in serfdom to years that have flown," or to anything else. He is distinctly a bird of passages, plumes and pastures. Basking and rustling his feathers yesterday in the sun of democracy and silver, today strutting sententiously in the republican tariff yard tomorrow scratching in the refuse heap of independence. He didn't stay in the field of democracy long enough to get the nomination for vice-president, but he may be back on his silver horse before the meeting of the convention.

General Otis is coming home from the Philippines in May. It is safe to say that his reception will not be a Dewey event.

It is certainly a very dangerous state of affairs when nearly every manufactured article of food is adulterated from 5 to 60 per cent., as shown by an article in this paper from the Washington Post on the report of the senate committee. It's little wonder that the American people are fast becoming invalids. If our congress is able to do anything for the protection of the public, it certainly ought to try itself on this matter, which, if not regulated, will surely sap the health of the American people.

During or just before our war between the states, a certain German came to America and assumed at once an unusual degree of prominence. Among those who continually carped at Abraham Lincoln and hindered in every way his policy in the war and wounded him most deeply, this man, Carl Schurz, was a leader. Mr. Schurz is still on the field of action, still carping, still snapping, but at something else and at somebody else, now, declaring in his latest speech that "the teachings of Washington and Lincoln are derided as antiquated nursery rhymes." Mr. Schurz happens to be one of those individuals who were born on the opposite side.

Some days ago a communication was sent to several papers of the state from Asheville, signed by "H. M. Haire, M. D.", saying that smallpox was prevalent at Canton and Clyde, suburbs of Asheville. The report turned out to be a fabrication, and the signature a fiction. The Asheville people got unduly excited over the matter, and one of them wrote the Charlotte Observer, thus:

The story was sent you for the purpose of injuring Asheville; there is no doubt of that; and we would pay handsomely to know the author. He would receive a nice coat of tar and feathers and be kicked out of the county. That it will result in the loss of hundreds of dollars to our city is certain. It will also hurt the entiere western section.

Of course we are meddling in somebody else's business, but we are bound to suggest that the Asheville folks are taking the matter too seriously. When smallpox is all over the state, and people are going about their business and paying no attention to it, it looks as if, in saying that such a false report could hurt Asheville or the entire western section, our Asheville friends have lost their heads. It could work no such havoc if it were doubly true.

THE COST OF ROYALTY.

Emperor William Costs German Taxpayers Yearly $9,000,000.

Washington Post.

Emperor William wants an increase of pay. He has not threatened to strike for higher wages, but it is understood that his necessity is ardent. Such being the case, and William's influence with the government being very considerable, we incline to the opinion that the additional $1,000,000 for which he calls will be graciously added to the annual allowance of $8,404,238 of which he in receipt under existing arrangements.

Emperor William comes high to the German taxpayers, but that is their business, and far be it from us to intimate that they have made any mistake as to his value or earning capacity. To be sure, the head of our government gets but $50,000 a year, but then our presidents do not write plays and run the risk of having them hissed, an experience to which a sensitive personage should not be expected to expose himself for any consideration of less than seven figures. And there are lots of other things in the line of activities which the self-sacrificing William so faithfully pursues that an American president would not undertake at any salary or wage.

It is pleasant to notice that, like wine of good vintage, William increases in value as the years wear on. His father and his grandfather were satisfied with a modest $2,000,000 a year—only forty times as much as we pay our president. But William soon found that amount a beggarly allowance, and had no difficulty in working it up more than 200 per cent It is stated that in addition to this income, Emperor William has $25,000,000 of "royal treasure" loaned on real estate in New York and greater or less amounts similarly loaned in other places. His office of "honorary colonel" of a number of regiments brings him in about $43,750 a year.

But a slight inspection of Emperor William's expense account shows that, with $8,000,000 a year, his office is not the "soft snap" that the contemplation of the other side of the matter would indicate. Here it is:

EMPEROR'S EXPENDITURE.

Dowage Empress Frederick..	$5 0,000
The Empress Augusta, Emperor William's wife.....	250,000
Berlin opera and playhouse..	475,000
Hanover opera and playhouse	187,500
Wiesbaden opera and playhouse	125,000
Cassel opera and playhouse..	37,500
Private pension list.....	125,000
Princess Frederick Charles of Prussia	15,000
Prince George of Prussia....	15,000
Sister Charlotte.....	25,000
Brother Henry.....	62,500
Royal stables.....	250,000
	$2,067,500
Maintaining twenty-four royal palaces throughout the empire.....	4,400,000
Emperor's personal expense	1,933,738
Total	$8,405,238

A sharper contrast between the democratic simplicity of our government and the complex extravagance of royalty could scarcely be found anywhere than that which these figures, in comparison with the president's salary, the residence, and the few and small items of White House expenditupre esent. The taxpayers of Germany pay annually $4,400,000 for the maintenance of twenty-four royal palaces. The American people require their president to reside in the building devoted to the business of his office, or to house himself and family elsewhere. We do not want any royal palaces in this country, for we have no royalities to provide for, but it is far from creditable to this great and rich nation that it persists in neglecting the erection of a suitable residence for the head of this government.

Interest in Sheep Culture.

Wilmington Star.

The Charlotte Observer a few days ago contained a dispatch from Morganton stating that a contract had been closed with some New York men for 50,000 acres of land in Burke county, which is intended for a sheep ranch, and that negotiations were pending with a number of Canadians for other tracts which are to be used as sheep ranges. The inference is that these parties propose to engage in this busine s on a large scale, large enough to justify the employ-ployment of men enough to protect the flocks from dogs and wild animals that might otherwise prove a serious obstacle to profit in the industry.

These announcements are interesting because they show that the advantages this state presents as a sheep-growing state are beginning to attract attention outside of the state, and of men who presumably know something about how that business should be conducted.

In an article on Piedmont North Carolina some time ago Mr. Edward Atkinson, of Boston, an excellent authority on industrial subjects, commented upon the exceptional advantages it offers for sheep culture and stated the fact that North Carolina grown wool had, in competition with the world, taken two premiums at World's Fairs. Another fact he stated was that on the high grounds of the Piedmont section sheep are not as liable to foot-rot and other diseases that sometimes prove very destructive, while the abundance of clear, pure water in the mountain streams is an advantage of inestimable value. And with all this the flocks are protected by the hills and forests from sweeping winds in the winter, and by the forest foliage from the sun's rays in the summer.

All this being so, and being well known to so many of our own farmers, the remarkable thing is that sheep culture has not been more extensively entered upon. But then there it the dog, the numerous, omnipresent, ravenous, sheep-killing dog, which discounted all these advantages and deterred people, who otherwise would, from engaging largely in that industry.

MAY UPSET RUSSIAN PLANS.

Disconcerting Effect of Recent Events South Africa Upon War Party.

Special to the Washington Post.

London, Feb. 28—The Odessa correspondent of the Times, telegram under date of February 25, says:

"News of the relief of Kimberly and the information that the Boers are retiring from all parts of the invaded British possessions in South Africa has absolutely disconcerted the military party of Russia, and seems likely to deal a death blow to the plans they have been nourishing and hoping to be able to put into execution, by taking advantage of British reverses in South Africa, in order to carry out Russian designs respecting Persia and Afghanistan.

"In connection with the preparation going on in military circles, more especially with the troops quarters throughout the Caucasus and South Russian military districts, it is important to add that no time-expired men are attached to any of these districts or allowed to return home, but they are compelled to remain with the colors and serve for an indefinite period over and above the time they were called up for by conscription. Moreover, information comes that the military and naval cadets this year are finishing their course, and the fact that commissions have been granted these two months before the usual allotted time is being much commented on in naval and military circles.

The belief is freely expressed that the French exhibition is one of the main causes that have hindered an open and active alliance between this country and France, and the fear of the pro-Boer party of this country appears to be that the defeat of the Boers may be brought about before the termination of the Paris exhibition. In that case they know it to be almost hopeless to expect any active interference by this country or Europe to prevent the incorporation of the Transvaal and Orange Free State in the British possessions in South Africa.

The Best Medicine For Rheumatism.

"I think I would go crazy with pain were it not for Chamberlain's Pain Balm," writes Mr. W. H. Stapleton, Hermanie, Pa. "I have been afflicted with rheumatism for several years and have tried remedies without number, but Pain Balm is the best medicine I have got hold of." One application relieves the pain. Ludlow's Victory Over Shafter.

General William Ludlow, who is achieving high fame as the first American governor of Havana, owes his present command to a personal victory he gained over General Shafter in the first days of the Santiago campaign.

He had long ago attained a fine record as a topographical engineer, and was one of the first regular army officers to seek service in Cuba. With a scarcely dried commission of brigadier general of volunteers in his pocket he hastened to General Shafter.

Seeing that General Shafter already had a competent engineer on his staff, General Ludlow applied for command of a brigade on the fighting line, and mentioned the First brigade of the Second division. General Shafter looked up in surprise and exclaimed: "I thought you were an engineer!"

"So I am," replied General Ludlow, "also an artillerist, or cavalry officer, or an infantry officer, at the will of my superiors, like every trained soldier."

General Shafter began parleying, and General Ludlow, in the mildest manner possible, insisted, morning after morning, until he received it. After the terrible battle of El Caney he was promoted to be a major general.—Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

Luxury, Right or Wrong.

Discussing the right or wrong of luxury in The North American Review, Professor F Spencer Baldwin, a Boston university authority on economics, comes to these conclusions

"There are justifiable and there are unjustifiable luxuries.

"In general it may be laid down that a luxury which contributes to the efficiency of the individual in the widest sense and which does not impose on society for the satisfaction of its demands an unwholesome and degrading form of labor is perfectly justifiable.

"This sanction of luxury is not to be stretched to cover unlimited self indulgence. The part played by rational self sacrifice in the development of character is not to be overlooked. Constant self indulgence is demoralizing.

"But in general a man has a right to spend money for anything that enriches and diversifies his life, and thus aids in the developing and rounding out of his personality, provided the labor that is required for the production of the articles in question be agreeable and innocuous.

"On the other hand, a luxury that demoralizes the individual or calls for a noxious form of labor is unjustifiable."

Elephant Hunting in Nubia.

When the elephant is pursued on foot, it is invariably sought in the depths of the forest, where it has retired for shelter from the noonday sun and also for the short repose it takes during the 24 hours. The hunter, having tracked his quarry to its retreat, is obliged to use the utmost stealth in approaching it, the elephant being a very light sleeper and awakened by the slightest unusual sound.

The difficulty of moving through a dense, thorny jungle without making any sound dissimilar to those which might be produced by nature, such as the stirring of the branches by a light breeze or the occasional falling of a dead leaf, is greater than can be realized by any one who has not tried it.

On getting within arm's length of his game the swordsman slowly raises himself to an erect position and deals a slashing cut on the back sinews of the nearest foot about ten inches from the ground, at the same time leaping nimbly back to avoid a blow from the animal's trunk. The cut, if properly delivered, bites sheer to the bone, severing the large arteries, and in a short time death ensues from hemorrhage.—Harper's Weekly

A Sister Lost.

At one time, when two Cheyennes got to gambling, one lost, and luck seemed to be against him. After he had lost every piece of property he had, in desperation he put up his sister and lost her. This aroused great indignation through the tribe, but no one intimated that the unfortunate girl should not go and live as the wife of the man who had won her in a game of cards.

Over 20 years ago the writer was superintendent of the Arapahoe Indian school at Darlington during a period of five years. During this time not less than four young Indian women came to the school asking admittance and protection from marriage that was about to be forced upon them. The protection was given, and the young women afterward married according to their own choice. Since then these tribes have been gradually breaking away from their original customs until now they are married with the lawful marriage rites.—Southern Workman and Hampton School Record.

For the Babies.

There is no better medicine for the babies than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Its pleasant taste and prompt and effectual cures make it a favorite with mothers and small children. It quickly cures their coughs and colds, preventing pneumonia or other serious consequences. It also cures croup and has been used in tens of thousands of cases without a single failure so far as we have been able to learn. It not only cures croup, but when given as soon as the croupy cough appears, will prevent the attack. In cases of whooping cough it liquefies the tough mucous, making it easier to expectorate, and lessens the severity and frequency of the paroxysms of coughing, thus depriving that disease of all dangerous consequences. For sale by C. E. Holton, druggist.

At an informal meeting of prominent democrats at Memphis, Tenn., it was decided to press the name of Senator Turley, of Tennessee, for vice-president.

An Editor's Life Saved by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

During the early part of October, 1896, I contracted a bad cold, which settled on my lungs and was neglected until I feared that consumption had appeared in an incipient state. I was constantly coughing and trying to expel something which I could not. I became alarmed and after giving the local doctor a trial bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the result was immediate improvement, and after I had used three bottles my lungs were restored to their healthy state.—B S. SCROFULA AND ITS AWFUL HORRORS

—CURED BY—

Johnston's Sarsaparilla

QUART BOTTLES.

A MOST WONDERFUL CURE.

A Grand Old Lady Gives Her Experience.

Mrs. Thankful Orilla Hurd lives in the beautiful village of Brighton, Livingston Co., Mich. This venerable and highly respected lady was born in the year 1812, the year of the great war, in Hebron, Washington Co., New York. She came to Michigan in 1840, the year of "Tippecanoe and Tyler too." All her faculties are excellently preserved, and possessing a very retentive memory, her mind is full of interesting reminiscences of her early life, of the early days of the State of Michigan and the interesting and remarkable people she has met, and the stirring events of which she was a witness. But nothing in her varied and manifold recollections are more marvelous and worthy of attention than are her experiences in the use of JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA. Mrs. Hurd inherited a tendency and predisposition to scrofula, that terribly destructive blood taint which has cursed and is cursing the lives of thousands and marking thousands more as victims of the death angel. Transmitted from generation to generation, it is found in nearly every family in one form or another. It may make its appearance in dreadful running sores, in unsightly swellings in the neck or goitre, or in eruptions of varied forms. Attacking the mucous membrane, it may be known as catarrh in the head, or developing in the lungs it may be, and often is, the prime cause of consumption.

Speaking of her case, Mrs. Hurd says: "I was troubled for many years with a bad skin disease. My arms and limbs would break out in a mass of sores, discharging yellow matter. My neck began to swell and became very unsightly in appearance. My body was covered with scrofulous eruptions. My eyes were also greatly inflamed and weakened, and they pained me very much. My blood was in a very bad condition and my head ached severely at frequent intervals, and I had no appetite. I had sores also in my ears. I was in a miserable condition, I had tried every remedy that had been recommended, and doctor after doctor had failed. One of the best physicians in the state told me I must die of scrofulous consumption, as internal abcesses were beginning to form. I at length was told of Dr. Johnston, of Detroit, and his famous Sarsaparilla. I tried a bottle, more as an experiment than anything else, as I had no faith in it, and greatly to my agreeable surprise, I began to grow better. You can be sure I kept on taking it. I took a great many bottles. But I steadily improved until I became entirely well. All the sores healed up, all the bad symptoms disappeared. I gained perfect health, and I have never been troubled with scrofula since. Of course an old lady of 83 years is not a young woman, but I have had remarkably good health since then, and I firmly believe that JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA is the greatest blood purifier and the best medicine in the wide world, both for scrofula and as a spring medicine." This remarkably interesting old lady did not lok to be more than sixty, and she repeated several times, "I believe my life was saved by JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA."

POINTING THE WAY.

When a brave admiral in war time goes into an enemy's harbor he knows that the life of every man in the fleet depends upon his skill and courage. It is a tremendous responsibility; and yet he cannot feel it any more deeply and truly than a conscientious physician feels his responsibility for the lives of those who are dependent upon his professional care and skill. He feels that his duty demands more than a mere routine, stereotyped interest in his patients; he feels that his work is a serious matter; that it is often a question of life and death.

"You have my many heart-felt thanks for your kindly advice to me in my sickness," writes Mrs. Claus Nelson, of Pico Heights, Los Angeles, Cal., Box 31, in a cordial letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. "Also for your book which I received two years ago, and which I could not do without. It is all the Doctor I have had since I got it. I had female trouble and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, together with the advice given in his book, cured me of five years' sickness. I thought my days would not be long, but your kindness and medicine would not let me die."

For more than thirty years Dr. Pierce has occupied a grand and most unique position for benefiting his fellow beings: as chief consulting physician of the great Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo. Almost countless thousands have sought his services and advice both in person and by letter.

"He is one of the best men in the world," said the late President Garfield, "and he is at the head of one of the best medical institutions in the world." Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated "Common Sense Medical Adviser" is sent free for 21 one-cent stamps to pay the mere cost of mailing, or for handsome cloth-bound copy, 31 stamps. He makes no charge for consultation by mail; he only requests that sufferers will state their cases to him fully, freely, and in perfect confidence. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

"I haven't had a bite for three days," said the hungry tramp. "Poor man," remarked the kind-hearted old woman, "I haven't any dog to set on you, but if you stay out long enough perhaps you will get frost-bitten."

WINE OF CARDUI

WOMEN WHO WORK.

ST. LOUIS, MO., Aug. 13.

Though only 19 years old, I suffered from pains and female troubles two years. Last spring I got so bad I had to quit work. I had to support myself, and could not afford a high-priced doctor. I got one bottle of Wine of Cardui and that made me feel better. Have now used several bottles and am well. My mother used the Wine for Change of Life and was greatly relieved.

MISS MARGARET WALSH.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

Many girls and women find it necessary to earn their own living in various kinds of employment. Their work is often so hard and confining that the health breaks down. Their delicate constitutions are unfitted for tiresome tasks. Weakness nearly always makes its appearance in the peculiarly delicate womanly organs. Constant standing on the feet, and coming and going at the beck of a superintendent or foreman, induces falling of the womb, leucorrhœa, headache and backache. The pay of women workers is often so notoriously small that when sickness comes they have no money to engage skillful physicians. To them Wine of Cardui is truly a blessing. It cures them of their ills at a small cost, and they can act as their own physicians. No doctor can do as much for "female troubles" as Wine of Cardui.

OAK RIDGE INSTITUTE.

The Fine Commencement Program—Prof. Holt's Long Management.

Correspondence of the Telegram

Oak Ridge, March 1—In the quarter just ended W. L. Newsome, of Forsythe county, led the school; E E Kapp, of Winston, second; Quincy Mills, of Statesville, third; H. A Gudger, of Asheville, fourth; J. R. Blackwell, of Reidsville, fifth, and D. H. Bland of Burgaw, sixth. All of these had an average above ninety-nine. In the business college department H. A. Lyon, of Granville, led, and Mr. Thomas Knight, of Madison, was second.

This year, the forty eighth in the history of the school, marks the close of the twenty-fifth under the management of Profs. J. A. and M H. Holt. This is probably longer than any other school in the state has been under the same management without change of men or place The coming commencement is expected to be a red letter day. Rev. F. T. Marr, the eloquent pastor of the Centenary M. E. Church South, Winston, will preach the annual sermon Sunday, May 20

John B. Gordon, the brave, eloquent and beloved Southern general, will address the graduating classes May 22d. Gen. Julian S. Carr has promised to be present and introduce General Gordon or deliver the diplomas.

"I love you, you dear thing," she said. Then turning to the other, she cried, scornfully, "Brute!"

Consulting the domestic vocabulary of the household, in which the scene above narrated was enacted, we develop the fact, which will be useful to ethnologists in the future, that the former remark was addressed to her pet dog, the latter to her husband.

Charlotte News.

Capt. F. S. DeWolfe, his daughter, Mrs. Whittlesey, and Misses Charlotte and Laura Whittlesey, left this morning for their home in Seattle, Wash. They will stop over a few days in Washington and New York, going from the latter city across the continent to Seattle. It is a long trip, over three thousand miles.

Capt. DeWolfe formerly resided in Charlotte, and was one of the most popular mayors the city ever had. He was to have delivered the opening address at the laying of the corner-stone of the new graded school building, but the ceremony was postponed on account of the bad weather and he was unable to remain here longer.

"My darling!" he cried, "I love you as no man ever loved before Will you be mine?" The up-to-date girl smiled. "Not on your life," she replied, "but—" here she eyed him severely,—"you may be mine, if you like."

Mrs. Calvin Zimmerman, Milesburg, Pa., says: "As a speedy cure for coughs, colds, croup and sore throat One Minute Cough Cure is unequalled. It is pleasant for children to take. I heartily recommend it to mothers." It is the only harmless remedy that produces immediate results. It cures bronchitis, pneumonia, grippe and lung diseases. It will prevent consumption Howard Gardner.

PortoRican Bill Passed.

Washington, Feb 28—The battle royal over the Porto Rico tariff bill ended in the house to-day in a sweeping victory for the republicans. The bill, amended, as agreed upon at the conference of republicans Monday night, so as to reduce the tariff from 25 to 15 per cent. of the American tariff and limiting its life to two years, was passed by a vote of 172 yeas to 161 nays.

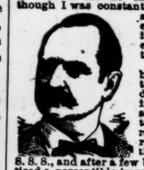
One Minute Cough Cure, cures That is what it was made for.

Foul-Smelling Catarrh.

Catarrh is one of the most obstinate diseases, and hence the most difficult to get rid of.

There is but one way to cure it. The disease is in the blood, and all the sprays, washes and inhaling mixtures in the world can have no permanent effect whatever upon it. Swift's Specific cures Catarrh permanently, for it is the only remedy which can reach the disease and force it from the blood

Mr. B. P. McAllister, of Harrodsburg, Ky., had Catarrh for years. He writes: "I could see no improvement whatever, though I was constantly treated with sprays and washes, and different inhaling remedies—in fact, I could feel that each winter I was worse than the year previous.



"Finally it was brought to my notice that Catarrh was a blood disease, and after thinking over the matter, I saw it was unreasonable to expect to be cured by remedies which only reached the surface. I then decided to try S. S. S., and after a few bottles were used, I noticed a perceptible improvement. Continuing the remedy, the disease was forced out of my system, and a complete cure was the result. I advise all who have this dreadful disease to abandon their local treatment, which has never done them any good, and take S. S. S., a remedy that can reach the disease and cure it."

To continue the wrong treatment for Catarrh is to continue to suffer. Swift's Specific is a real blood remedy, and cures obstinate, deep-seated diseases, which other remedies have no effect whatever upon. It promptly reaches Catarrh, and never fails to cure even the most aggravated cases.

S.S.S. For The Blood

is Purely Vegetable, and is the only blood remedy guaranteed to contain no dangerous minerals.

Kept Irving Busy.

Said a member of the Philadelphia Art club to a reporter for the Philadelphia Record:

"When Sir Henry Irving was last in Philadelphia, we gave him a big blowout. It was a sort of smoker, and each guest was supplied with one of those long churchwarden pipes. Everything went well for a time, and Sir Henry seemed to be having a real sociable time until some fellow, who was a rank outsider, asked him to write his autograph on the pipe bowl. A pencil was produced, and the actor smilingly assented. That was the beginning of an avalanche of white clay pipes. Their owners came at him from all sides. It was a trying ordeal, but Sir Henry submitted to it with good grace. For two solid hours he sat there and scrawled his signature on pipes. It was well on toward daylight before he made his escape. If he comes to the Art club again, he will undoubtedly demand a promise that there will be no pipes."

To Beautify a Church.

The Philadelphia Record says: "Old Christ church, on Second street above Market, which is one of the most interesting structures from a historical point of view in the country, is to be beautified by a series of handsome memorial windows, which will add greatly to its attractiveness. The first of these, a gift from the King and Wainwright families, has already been presented and will be followed by others from time to time."

In the absence of specific instructions from Mr. Kipling, the white man is disposed to consider himself predestined to take up whatever isn't nailed down.—Detroit Journal.

No Cure—No Pay.

The Chinaman's "Roll."

Of all the men who make their way about on the streets or in the street cars in this frosty weather, John Chinaman is the most comfortably clad, and, therefore, the most comfortable. He does not look it, but the Chinaman has the knack of getting a lot of warm quilted clothing next to his yellow skin. His blouse is, of course, of heavy material, and the thick soles of his odd shoes keep his feet warm.

Neither does John have to fidget around and unbutton his clothing, exposing himself to the cold blasts that blow through the street car, to fish out his nickel for fare. Before he leaves home he sticks a nickel in his ear—right handy to reach when the conductor comes around.

In just what part of his odd clothing John carries his money is a problem not even the long and the short men have been able to solve. The average Chinaman carries a bundle "big enough to choke a horse," as the saying is, but, though often tried, no hold up man has ever prospected successfully for the roll in his victim's mysterious wraps, and the average thief would just as soon tackle a guaranteed burglar proof safe as a Chinaman.—Chicago Chronicle.

He Robbed Discourteously.

A letter to the editor which has just appeared in the leading papers of Palermo bears the signature of Candino, the most feared and murderous of Sicilian brigands, and is destined to inform the readers that he has expelled from his band a notorious robber named Galbo, as having been guilty of "discourteous and unmannerly conduct in his dealings with the public." The letter ends with the words "kindest greetings of friendship."—Paris Messenger.

A Chinese Woman Doctor.

Miss Hu King Eng, a young Chinese woman who studied for seven years in the University of Michigan and took the degree of M. D. there, is now in charge of a hospital at Fuchau. Such is her reputation that a cooly wheeled his old blind mother 1,000 miles in a wheelbarrow to take her to "the woman doctor." An operation for double cataract was performed, and the woman can now see as well as ever.

ON A SAD MISSION.

Oak Ridge Boys Accompany Remains of Mr. Townsend.

The body of young Edward C. Townsend, whose death was announced in these columns yesterday, was brought to his father's home in this city last night accompanied by the following young men: Blackwell, Vanstory and Witherspoon, of the Philomathian Society, and Adcock and Bass, of the Athenian. The deceased was a member of the latter society. At a meeting of the faculty and students in the chapel at Oak Ridge yesterday, both the Professors Holt made touching and beatiful remarks in memory of the young manwho so recently was one of the student body, in the full vigor of promising young manhood. Young Mr. Townsend was popular among his companions and fellow students and his death has clouded their hearts.

The young men accompanying the remains to the home here, remained over tonight and went with them to the last resting place in Burlington this afternoon, the leaving here on the delayed east bound train.

Much sympathy is felt and expressed for the bereaved parents and the family of the deceased. The father is Mr. C. C. Townsend, who removed to this city about two years ago from Burlington, and who is regarded as one of our most valued citizens.

Carried to Jail.

J. T Thompson, who was arrested for retailing at Proximity, as mentioned in this paper yesterday, was given a preliminary hearing yesterday evening, and bound over to court in four cases. In default of bail he was carried to jail at Winston this morning by Deputy Sheriff Weatherly. Mr. Weatherly says Thompson had gone into the business quite extensively, that he had about a dozen jugs in his ranch, but most of them were empty. It is thought he had two pals, but that they were frightened away by the arrest of Thompson.

Thompson has several children who are employed in the cotton mill, industriously earning an honest living.

ON TO WINSTON.

District Meeting of Knights of Pythias There Tonight.

Local members of Knights of Pythias, remember the delightful time had at the district meeting held here last April, and all who can leave their business are going up to Winston-Salem tonight to enjoy a similar meeting there. Grand Chancellor Woodward was here this morning and went up on the early train. Chancellor Commanders A. A. Johnson and J. M. Cunningham, of Greensboro Lodge No 80, and Guilford Lodge, No. 69, respectfully, went up on the noon train with a good-sized delegation, among whom the reporter caught the names of H. G. Griffin, J. W. Merrit, Geo. H. Royster, C. C. McLean, C. E Brower, J. M. Bailey, G. W. Kestle A. P. Watlington, A. B Sample and others. A large delegation will go up tonight.

The following delegates from Ramseur also went up: E. E. Maynard, J. E. Cole, and A. H. Thomas. Liberty sends a large delegation, which arrived here on the afternoon train and will up tonight.

TICKING FINISHED HERE

And Shipped Elsewhere to be Manufactured.

It is suggested by a thoughtful and successful business man that a mattress manufactory on a large scale would be a valuable addition to Greensboro's enterprises. He says that more ticking is finished here than anywhere in the country, perhaps, and that it is being shipped to every mattress factory in the United States. The cloth is woven in North Carolina mills, "finished" at the finishing mill in this city, and then sent away to other places to be "cut, sewed and stuffed."

The query very naturally arises, why not establish a factory here to complete the job and turn out mattresses ready for the dealer. The cloth is made here, all raw materials, cotton, shucks, straw, fibres, etc., are convenient, and hair and moss can be procured as easily as anywhere, and all that is lacking is some one with knowledge of the business to start the ball.

THE MASONS.

A Largely Attended Meeting in Their Lodge Room Last Night.

It would seem from what members of the order are allowed to tell, that the local lodge of A. F. & A. M. is on a regular Masonic boom. The regular meeting last night was largely attended, a brand new stove having been installed, everybody was in the brightest mood, a rich feeling of good fellowship prevailed, and as a member expressed it to the reporter this morning "we had a royal good time."

Third degree work was conferred on Clarence Bogart, and he can now mix his mortar, take his trowel and hod and start out. Some visiting members were present and speak in terms of praise of the manner in which the work was done and the interest shown by the local members in the order.

BRIEF LOCAL MATTERS.

Some very fine decorating is being done in the office, lobby and writing rooms of the Benbow.

A number of Pythians came up from Liberty this afternoon, en route to the district meeting at Winston-Salem tonight.

Ladies clean your kid gloves with LaBelle glove cleaner. It is not a liquid, leaves no odor and can be used while the glove is on the hand. For sale only by Grissom & Fordham, druggists. 3m.

Mrs. B. C. Sharp will recite at the Academy of Music Monday night. All who have heard Mrs Sharp know what a treat is in store, she being undoubtedly the best elocutionist in the city. Mrs. Sharp is teacher of physical culture and elocution at the Normal School. Mr. Jos. Wesley White will also sing.

Two boys attending the practice school at the Normal, named John Whittington and Frank Fields, had an altercation in the play ground at noon today and Whtiington was cut with a knife by Fields. It is hoped the wound is not serious. The boys are each about ten or eleven years of age. The unfortunrte accident is greatly regreted.

is where we stand in the lumber business. At the kicking post, as it were, in regard to prices.

First comes the owner of the timber. He just woke up to the value of it and wants double last year's prices. Then the sawmill man. He has not been making a fortune and thinks now he should share a little in the general prosperity.

They say to us: "We must have so much for our trees and work." After a while it is "up to you." Don't kick. You don't suppose we have nerve enough to put up prices unless they had first been put up on us. No, indeed. But prices are NOT high. They have been to low and are just now getting reasonable. Your children will be glad to build at double the price it now costs you. It is a trite, but true saying, if you want to build, "Now is the time."

And ours is the place to get the stuff,

There are some things it is better not to see—then again SEEING may mean SAVING.

This latter is true of our REMNANT COUNTER! See it Saturday and you will save something certainly—maybe considerable.

Right along side of the remnant counter you will see a lot of 1.00 and 1.50 Kid Gloves marked down to 50c. Look into this also—it will pay you.
